CROCHET FOR THE CURE

When we came up with the idea to publish a book of crocheted projects intended to promote breast cancer awareness, we never dreamed of the response we would receive. Our call for designs brought in not only dozens of wonderful crocheted items, but touching personal stories from many of the designers as well. We heard from survivors as well as friends and family members; it seems everyone had a story to share. So many lives have been touched by the challenge of breast cancer; so many hearts carry love and pride for the survivors, as well as for the brave souls who are survivors in spirit.

introduction

As our contribution, DRG Publishing is pleased to donate a portion of the proceeds of this book to breast cancer research. This book has become a labor of love for everyone involved. It is our hope these items will encourage the recipients to keep a positive and optimistic attitude, and to always "Think Pink!" And, remember getting tested regularly for breast cancer is the best way for women to lower their risk, as screening tests can find cancer early, when it's most treatable.

It is with much love that we dedicate this book to women everywhere who face life's most difficult challenges with optimism, courage and faith.

It was the sweetest, most mysterious-looking place anyone could imagine. The high walls which shut it in were covered with the leafless stems of climbing roses, which were so thick that they were matted together. Mary Lennox knew they were roses because she had seen a great many in India. All the ground was covered with grass of wintry brown, and out of it grew clumps of bushes which were surely rose bushes if they were alive. There were numbers of standard roses which had so spread their branches that they were like little trees. There were trees in the garden, and one of the things made the place look strangest and loveliest climbing roses had run all over them and down in long tendrils which made light masses, and here and there they had either or at a far-reaching branch and Cut ribbon in half. Tie 1 piece of ribbon around end of each Braid.

Sew Braids to inside of Band, 2 inches on each side of Curly Bangs. •

Recently, a friend of mine underwent a double mastectomy and had just begun chemotherapy which was due to last for many long months. I wanted to do something to let her know of my concern and care for her and to cheer her up if possible. The end result was a box filled with nine different crocheted chemo caps I designed just for her, ranging from the traditional pink chemo cap to the whimsical Pigtail Hat (her favorite) featured here.

FABRIC PREPARATION

Pre-shrink fabric in laundry.

To cut fabric, carefully follow
these steps:

1. Cut fabric into 1-yard pieces. Work on only 1 1-yard piece at a time.
2. Fold 1-yard piece in half lengthwise with WS facing.
3. Sew the selvedge edges tog twice with sewing machine, creating a tube.
4. Fold the fabric in half lengthwise again, leaving 1-inch selvedge at top (see Fig. 1).

Fig. 1
Fabric Preparation
Folding Diagram

5. Using a pair of scissors, or rotary cutter (recommended), cut 1-inch strips of fabric up to the folding line (see Fig. 2).

Fig. 2
Fabric Preparation
Cutting Diagram

6. Open both folds and cut the selvedge in slants, from 1 end of 1 strip to the end of the other (see Fig. 3).

York City, and was given such hope and encouragement. I was one of the lucky ones—my cancer was small and found early. I have been told many times that the doctor who read my mammogram saved my life. I have also been told that the only reason that he detected it so early was the fact that he had 10 previous mammograms of mine on file for comparison. With excellent treatment, great support of family and friends and a very strong faith, I got through it.

I would like to encourage every woman to get a yearly mammogram, and, if at all possible, go to the same facility each time. If this is not possible, ask for copies of previous mammograms to be sent to current facilities. Early detection saves lives.

When I was diagnosed with breast cancer last year, two wonderful friends showed up at my door with a handmade item. Each time I covered myself with it, I was reminded of their concern and it brought me comfort. With that in mind, I was delighted to create this simple lapghan that is quick and easy to crochet. I chose the color pink camo not only because pink is the color symbolic of breast cancer, but because it is mixed in with other colors that are still a part of my life. I am especially drawn to the green because for me it is a sign of hope and new life. In spite of all my trials, there is life after treatment. My hope is that someone will make the lapghan with love to give to another in need of comfort.

My husband's mother, Rose, battled breast cancer off and on for five years and eventually lost her battle. I designed this hat and scarf as a tribute to her struggle in hopes that something beautiful would be created out of her pain. My husband says his mother's nature was to look for beauty in all things and always try to bring a smile to another's face despite her own pain. We think she would have been proud and happy to see someone going through the same struggle that she did with a smile and a rose.
