

Rad Radish Amigurumi

Try taking a step back from hoity-toity “gourmet” foods and rediscover how delicious the regular offerings can be! Even if radishes aren’t the epitome of great taste, they sure are adorable, so here’s a pattern to make one that you can admire endlessly and is guaranteed never to rot on you!

Radish:

With an F hook and white worsted weight yarn...

Sc 6 st in a circle, and leave the tail end of the yarn on the outside (or right side) of your radish. Trim it so about 1 inch sticks out of the tip.

Sc around (6 st)

Sc1, sc twice into next st* around (9 st)

Sc2, sc twice into next st* around (12 st)

-Switch to red worsted weight yarn-

Sc1, sc 2 into next st* around (18 st)

Sc2m sc twice into next (24 st)

Sc around for 2 rounds

Sc2, sc2tog* around (18 st)

Sc1, sc2tog* around (12 st)

-Stuff-

Sc2tog (6 st)

Break yarn and gather opening together, tying tightly.

Leaf: (Make 2)

Using the same hook with a dark green worsted weight yarn...

Ch20, sc into second ch from hook, sc in next 10. [hdc, dc, tc, dc into next st,] *4x

Continuing around in same st, tc, [dc, tc, dc in same st, hdc]* 4 times. Sl st, break yarn leaving a good length to sew with.

Simply attach the two leaves to the top using the excess length of yarn, tie tight, and weave in the ends. Enjoy the classic veggies along with the new, and don’t be afraid to pick up that misplaced oddity in the produce section – It may prove to be a treasure you’ll always remember!
